

Farm Profit Conferences In Four Communities

Concise, fast-paced, accurate outlook for agriculture will be presented at the four Farm Profit Conferences planned this year by 580 WIBW, according to Kelly Lenz, longtime 580 WIBW farm director who has coordinated the programs.

The schedule includes Oskaloosa, February 10; Madison, February 18; Randolph, March 8; and Garnett, March 23.

Sponsored by 580 WIBW, in cooperation with the local Extension offices, each three-hour evening program, free and open to the public, will begin at 5:30, with viewing of displays by agriculture business sponsors.

A complimentary beef supper, by advance reservation through the cooperating Extension Office, or emailing kelly.lenz@alphamediausa.com, will begin at 6 o'clock.

While the speaker panel, beginning at 6:45, will vary according to location, information concerning the weather, commodity price outlook and developing farm management plans are to highlight all of the most educational, and often quite entertaining, programs.

Sponsorships are still available by emailing frank.buchman@alphamediausa.com.

Padre Says:

A farmer recently won the lottery. When asked what he was going to do with the money, the farmer replied, "I'll keep farming until the money runs out."
